News:

Hyspecs upgrades its computer server... Due to strong growth over the past 5 years our old computer server was beginning to fall apart...literally. To allow us to keep growing and to continue offering great service we knew an upgrade was a necessity. The new server allows us to store massive amounts of data and gives us the ability to share information across our organisation quickly and efficiently.

At Hyspecs we are proud of our ability to answer questions over the phone quickly. With the help of the new IBM/Linux server, we have an in-house online hydraulics library which we call our Electronic Catalogues. We've pretty much got it covered, and if we haven't, we can download it via our high speed internet connection.

With the aid of our VPN (Virtual Private Network) between our Auckland and Christchurch branches we know exactly what stock we have and where it is.

All this technology is just a step towards achieving our motto..."to make things easier for the customer".
